

Add some Native Bird-Friendly Plants to your garden and feed the birds! Each year, Golden Gate Bird Alliance and CNPS Yerba Buena compile and promote a short list of native plants that are easily grown and readily available at local nurseries. These garden friendly plants can provide a feast for many beautiful bird species, with berries, seeds, nectar, and insects; they also support butterfly and moth larvae. This winter (the best time to plant is after fall's first heavy rain), we encourage you to support local nurseries through your purchase of locally native plants. Stop by one of the nurseries featured — your patronage will encourage them to stock even more locally native plants for birds. Best of all, when you add these plants to your garden, our local birds benefit!
